

Best tenanted pub in the North-West

A RIBBLE Valley hostelry has been named as the Best Tenanted/Leased Pub 2011 in the North-West, beating off the challenge of numerous pubs across the region to win the award.

The Coach and Horses, Bolton-by-Bowland, run by owner Ross Heywood and Zak Aujla, won the title in the Great British Pub Awards, recognised as the Oscars of the pub world.

The awards are organised by the leading pub industry magazine The Publican's Morning Advertiser. Its editor, Paul Charity, said: "The award recognises the tenanted/leased pub that has shown the most initiative in developing its business in the past 12 months. The Coach and Horses has fantastic offers for its customers and is a worthy winner of the award."

Independent judges visited all the competing pubs to assess them, with the Coach and Horses coming out on top. It will now go forward to the Great British Pub Awards final, to be hosted by Rory Bremner at the Hilton Hotel, London, on September 8th, .

The Coach and Horses will go head to head with five other regional winners in its bid for the overall UK title.

Best tenanted pub in the North-West

A RIBBLE Valley hostelry has been named as the Best Tenanted/Leased Pub 2011 in the North-West, beating off the challenge of numerous pubs across the region to win the award.

The Coach and Horses, Bolton-by-Bowland, run by owner Ross Heywood and Zak Aujla, won the title in the Great British Pub Awards, recognised as the Oscars of the pub world.

The awards are organised by the leading pub industry magazine The Publican's Morning Advertiser. Its editor, Paul Charity, said: "The award recognises the tenanted/leased pub

that has shown the most initiative in developing its business in the past 12 months. The Coach and Horses has fantastic offers for its customers and is a worthy winner of the award."

Independent judges visited all the competing pubs to assess them, with the Coach and Horses coming out on top. It will now go forward to the Great British Pub Awards final, to be hosted by Rory Bremner at the Hilton Hotel, London, on September 8th, .

The Coach and Horses will go head to head with five other regional winners in its bid for the overall UK title.